

Support a Future: Sponsor a Special Education Teacher in India

The Tabitha Enabling Academy (TEA), located in Nagaland, India, supports and educates children with physical and mental disabilities. In this culture the children and their families face a great deal of social stigma, and it is often difficult to get qualified support for disabled children.

The TEA provides education and occupational training for the children so they can learn how to better care for themselves, and community outreach in order to improve social acceptance.

The Tabitha Enabling Academy serves 50 children. They are looking for assistance to pay the salaries of three teachers at $75 each month per teacher (500 rupees each month). Two of the teachers are disabled themselves, which shows the students that their disabilities do not limit their chance at a meaningful future.

Meet the Teachers

Ms. Thong has been at the TEA for five years and has the best methods for managing the most challenging students, including children on the autism spectrum and those with Down syndrome.

Mr. Kilumo, hearing impaired himself, is trained in both American Sign Language and Indian Sign Language, and has attended seminars as a Sign Language Instructor.

Ms. Chumbeni, hearing impaired herself, is trained in American Sign Language and in Indian Sign Language. She has been at TEA for three years and is the primary Sign Language teacher.
